11 January 2015
the baptism of the Lord (OF year B & EF)
the holy family (EF)

I am sure many of you either for work or school have done some kind of personality inventory. The most famous one is the Meyers-Briggs personality test, which, based on your answers to a whole series of questions, evaluates you as: extrovert/introvert, sensing/intuitive, thinking/feeling, and judging/perceiving. I always come out as ENTJ, and am shocked at how accurate it is, at least for me. Every personality type has its strengths and its weaknesses, and if we understand others' personality types it can often help us to be more effective communicators with them.

In the Middle Ages, people posited that personality was the result of a preponderance of a particular kind of fluid in the body: yellow bile, black bile, blood or phlegm. This made you choleric, sanguine, melancholic or phlegmatic. Many saints were identified as belonging to one group or another: St Peter was sanguine, St Paul was choleric, St John of the Cross melancholic, and so forth.

Human beings have always sought to understand why we are often so different from each other. From a psychological perspective, it appears that both genetics and upbringing are powerful influences on how we think, act and see the world. Culture, language, and socio-economic opportunity are undeniable factors on how we live and move in the world. Morally speaking, we can say that we have a certain stable character that manifests itself in certain inclinations to both virtues and vices. Our faith reminds us that, even with all of this conditioning from nature or nurture, we do have free will. And apart from serious mental illness, it means that we have to exercise our free will for the good, both the common good, and for our ultimate good, union with God.

At the same time though, charity requires us to try to understand the other person, whether that person be our significant other, the jerk who cut us off on the interstate (oops, my choleric is showing, I guess), or our coworkers. In a church environment, we have to be sensitive that not everyone receives or interprets everything in the same way, or according to the intention of the giver. I am reminded of this when I preach. The same words of the same homily may be received in wildly different ways by different people: maybe someone is at a place in her life where she received just the right amount of challenge and consolation, another person may be going through so much crisis in his life that any mention of certain things will set him off into a tailspin, yet another may hate the messenger and reject the message on principle. All of these things are part of our life, even in church.

St Thomas Aquinas reminds us, Grace perfects nature. The human person is a complex, often dysfunctional and hard to interpret creature. For society to work requires us to bear with each other and be patient. Divine assistance helps us to be more simple, to not take ourselves too seriously, and to seek out the gifts of God that can elevate our human nature to union with Christ. But we must be patient with one another, seek to understand each other, and then pray and sacrifice for each other. If the parish is a school of the Lord's service, then we grow together in grace by bearing one another's burdens, being patient with one another, and rejoicing in our common sonship in Love.

south carolina catholic men's conference building men of God

Do you want to:

- grow in your Catholic faith?
- deepen your relationship with Christ?
- be a better father, son, husband, and man?
- be a spiritual leader in your family, church, workplace, and community?

This conference is for you! Come and fill your spiritual toolbox with the information you need to build your faith! Along with the energetic and engaging presentations, Bishop Robert Guglielmone will concelebrate Mass with a distinguished group of priests and deacons from across the state of South Carolina. Throughout the day the sacrament of reconciliation will be offered. You will leave this event with a deeper faith, possessing the tools to continue to "Build your Faith" in Christ Jesus. These tools will make you a better father, husband, son and man of Christ.

welcome new parishioners: Edward & Nicole Heim and their daughters Isabelle & Victoria; and Roslyn McReynolds.

fr smith and his family would like to thank the numerous parishioners who outpoured sympathy and arranged for Masses to be celebrated for his brother, Terry Rainey. May God reward you for your kindness!

fr smith & fr cruz would like to thank the many parishioners who have taken the time to write and give Christmas gifts to the priests of Prince of Peace. May the peace of the Christ Child reign in your homes because of your kindness.

the felician sisters would like to thank Fr Smith and the Parish for the support of the Felician Sisters. The Sisters were humbled by the reception they received at POP. More than a dozen large boxes of toiletries were donated by the parish. This will fill their pantry for many months.

greenville literacy association's greer learning center is in need of volunteer tutors for adult classes. Volunteers teach adult students working on GED test preparation and, of particular need at this time, teach non-English speaking adults to learn English as a Second Language. The Greer Learning Center is located in the J Harley Bonds Resource Center at 505 North Main Street. For more information, call Jennifer Machuca at 848.5370 or email machuca@greenvillegreer.org.

january natural family planning intros: The new year means new opportunities to learn about natural family planning. Whether you are engaged to be married this year, are already, or even a single woman with women's health issues, we have a class for you. Couples can plan and space their children with ease using modern, highly effective methods of family planning that are 100 % natural. NFP also offers couples who are experiencing infertility, the hope of achieving pregnancy while following the teachings of the Church and real solutions to women's health issues. Next class is 13 January at St Anthony of Padua at 6p or 14 January at St Francis Hospital-Eastside at 7p. Want more information or need to register, please contact Kelli Ball at: kellihsball@gmail.com or 803.807.0158.
