A letter from our Pastor

An Extraordinary Parish for Ordinary People

Dear Friends in Christ,

Catholics of a certain age will remember that every Friday of the year was a day of abstinence from meat. In 1966, Pope Paul VI in the document Paenitemini relaxed some of the more rigorous rules for fasting and abstinence during the holy season of Lent, but he reiterated that every Friday of the year that is not a day of obligation is still a day of abstinence binding under pain of grievous sin. He also provided for national bishop's conferences to allow for another suitable penance to be allowed on Fridays outside of Lent (which the United States did), and for individual bishops and pastors to dispense from the obligation for pastoral reasons. I often have people ask me for permission to eat meat on a Friday outside of Lent, and, I figure, if they go through the trouble to ask for the dispensation, I'm happy to grant it!

What you might not know, and you might wish I had told you this last week, is that Pius XII actually gave permission for Catholics in the United States to eat meat leftovers on the Friday after Thanksgiving, which was a generous response to an important secular holiday with some religious overtones. Of course, Paul VI's document actually abrogates earlier indulgences of the type, but I think it is quite interesting nonetheless!

Rules for fasting and abstinence have changed over the years. In the Eastern Churches, some 180 days out of the year are dedicated to fasting, but their conception of obligation is less rigid than the Western obligation for Ash Wednesday and Good Friday. In the early Church, Wednesday, Friday and Saturdays were all days of penance, and at one point, Mass wasn't even celebrated on those days so the fast was not broken! Still though, the Church as a wise mother knew when to push and when to pull back. For example, in Seville most of the faithful participate in processions during Holy Week that go on throughout the day and night, and so there is an ancient privilege for Catholics in that city who participate in the processions (like the men who carry 2 ton floats with statues on their backs for hours at a time) to eat meat even on Good Friday!

At any rate though, penance and mortification is important. As Paul VI wrote:

The preeminently interior and religious character of penitence and the new wondrous aspects which it assumes "in Christ and in the Church" neither excludes nor lessens in any way the external practice of this virtue, but on the contrary reaffirms its necessity with particular urgency and prompts the Church—always attentive to the signs of the times—to seek, beyond fast and abstinence, new expressions more suitable for the realization, according to the character of various epochs, of the precise goal of penitence.

True penitence, however, cannot ever prescind from physical asceticism as well. Our whole being in fact, body and soul, (indeed the whole of nature, even animals without reason, as Holy Scripture often points out) must participate actively in this religious act whereby the creature recognizes divine holiness and majesty. The necessity of the mortification of the flesh also stands clearly revealed if we consider the fragility of our nature, in which, since Adam's sin, flesh and spirit have contrasting desires. This exercise of bodily mortification—far removed from any form of stoicism does not imply a condemnation of the flesh which sons of God deign to assume. On the contrary, mortification aims at the "liberation" of man, who often finds himself, because of concupiscence, almost chained by his own senses. Through "corporal fasting" man regains strength and the "wound inflicted on the dignity of our nature by intemperance is cured by the medicine of a salutary abstinence."

Fr. Christopher E. Smith
