Letter from our Pastor

An Extraordinary Parish for Ordinary People

Dear Friends in Christ,

One of the more interesting trends of the 16th century that perdured until after Vatican II was the drive to divide the study of theology into categories and subcategories. As theology became more academic and tied with the university and seminary classroom, what it meant to “do theology” became far from what the Church Fathers knew as theology. The most powerful theological works of the first millennium of Christianity actually came from homilies and hymns by which bishops and priests taught the meaning of Sacred Scripture. Few of them saw the ministry of teaching entrusted by them to their office as something done in a classroom, but something done at the pulpit. There were famous places like the Catechetical School of Alexandria in Egypt which attracted students to a formal school like those run by Plato and Aristotle. But most theology was done in the context of preaching, which not limited to a few minutes at Mass.

As theology moved from pulpit to classroom, many Catholics began to be formed in their faith less from the liturgy and more from systematic classes taught to impart the basics of the faith. Those that went on to study academic theology then often learned from manuals which sought to provide texts from the Bible, the Fathers and the Liturgy to illuminate specific points of theology. In the 20th century, a number of theologians felt that this way of teaching and studying theology starved Christians from a more living contact with the Scripture, Liturgy and the Fathers. They sought to unite what had been divided up by previous centuries. That project was not necessarily bad, but it did mean that a lot of pedagogically useful texts and methods were scrapped in the obsession with novelty.

Spirituality was often rigidly divided into two categories: the ascetical and the mystical. It was frequently explained like this: the vast majority of Christians are bound to an ascetical path which was guided by exterior practices of penance, mortification and sacramental discipline; and some few elect might receive extraordinary mystical graces from God in contemplative prayer, but most of us should not expect to be mystics. The ascetical path was what we do for God and the mystical path was what God does in us. The famous French Dominican Reginald Garrigou-Lagrange, who was St John Paul II’s teacher in Rome, sought to overcome this profoundly untraditional distinction by positing that the mystical way of union with God is actually the normative state of every Christian, not just some kind of “professional Christians” like clergy or religious. This was a powerful way of reconnecting the spiritual life with the extraordinary graces of mystical prayer as well as the spiritual reality of the sacred liturgy.

I am currently sloughing my through two recent works by David Fagerberg from Notre Dame: Liturgical Asceticism and Liturgical Mysticism. In an age in which many Christians think that spirituality is merely an emotional attachment to some certain devotional practices, or emptying our conscience of all distraction in some sort of Zen coma, Fagerberg’s seminal texts present a timely corrective. The more we understand the spiritual reality which the liturgy both foreshadows and makes present to us in the here and now, the more we are conformed through, by and with the public worship of the Church and the celebration of the sacraments to Christ. So often we go to Mass out of habit or routine, and think that it reminds us about God. In reality, the Mass is the place where we become the Love we receive, if we just allow the inner reality of the Liturgy to penetrate our hearts.

Fr. Christopher Smith

march is dedicated to st joseph

"It is, then, natural and worthy that as the Blessed Joseph ministered to all the needs of the family at Nazareth and girt it about with his protection, he should now cover with the cloak of his heavenly patronage and defend the Church of Jesus Christ." - Pope Leo XIII. Here are some ideas on how to honor St Joseph:

- the Holy Father has proclaimed a "Year of Saint Joseph" from, 8 December 2020, to 8 December 2021 in celebration of the 150th anniversary of the declaration of St Joseph as Patron of the Universal Church
- pray the Litany of St Joseph, the Seven Sorrows and Joys of Saint Joseph, the Chaplet of St Joseph, or simply add "St. Joseph, Head of the Holy Family, pray for us" to your day.
- honor your father (or father figure) by describing your gratitude, calling him, making him dinner, offering a Mass in his honor, or visiting his gravesite on St Joseph's Day (19 March)
- Offer up your labor out of love and gratitude for St. Joseph. Remember that keeping holy the Sabbath and abstaining from labor on Sunday honors St. Joseph, too!
- Make a St Joseph altar or find a way to include St Joseph in your home
- Find ways to give to families in need, such as our food pantry, following St Joseph's loving example

totus tuus returns

celebrating the liturgical life of the church in YOUR home

Domestic Church
Celebration Opportunity

9 March: Feast of Saint Frances of Rome. Frances (Francesca) was born in 1384 in Rome. Her parents were wealthy nobility. As a child, Frances was very devout. She decided at age eleven to become a nun. Frances' father said no; he had already promised her in marriage to someone. Frances was very upset; she begged God to stop the marriage from happening. She complained to her confessor, who responded, "Are you crying because you want to do God's will, or because you want God to do your will?" Frances reluctantly agreed to the marriage. She married Lorenzo Ponzi-ani, a good man who treated her well. He was nobility and his family was prominent in society. Frances was very shy, so the parties that now filled her life were torturous. Frances became so overwrought with social anxiety that she collapsed bed-ridden for months, unable to eat or move. Near the point of death, Frances had a vision in which Saint Alexis said God was giving a choice: she could choose to recover, or not. Though she would have preferred to die, Frances said, "God's will in mine." St. Alexis then told her that she would live, and that by doing so she would glorify God. Frances recovered. As she became acquainted with her new relatives, Frances discovered that her sister-in-law also wished to live a life of service and prayer. They became close friends. With their husbands' blessings, Frances and Vannozza constantly helped the poor. Frances then had three children and devoted herself as a good wife and mother. When disease and famine came to Rome, Frances took care of the sick and poor. Her father-in-law was furious at Frances for giving away the family's stores of food, but when the food was miraculously replenished, he relented. Frances used all her money to help the poor. When all their resources were gone, Frances and Vannozza went door to door begging. As war raged, Frances suffered the loss of her son who was taken as a hostage. But he was returned to her after she entrusted his life to the Blessed Virgin. Frances later lost her younger two children to the plague. Her house was demolished. Despite these sufferings, she turned her home into a hospital. When war was over, her husband returned injured and Frances took care of him. Frances then received permission to start a society of women bound by no vows. This order, the Oblates of Mary, lived in the world but offered themselves wholly to God and the service of the poor. Frances chose not to live with the Oblates but rather at home with her husband. She did this for seven years, taking care of her husband until he passed away. Frances then joined the Oblates in 1436 as their superior. During her later years she received frequent visions and ecstasies. It is said that for twenty-three years her guardian angel was visible to her, aiding her work. She died in 1440 and was canonized by Pope Paul V in 1608. In 1925, Pope Pius XI made Saint Frances the patron saint of car drivers, because of a legend that an angel used to light the road in front of her when she travelled. She is also the patron saint of widows.

"It is most laudable in a married woman to be devout, but she must never forget that she is a housewife. And sometimes she must leave God at the altar to find Him in her housekeeping."
– St. Frances of Rome

Ideas for celebrating in your home:

- You could enjoy an Italian meal for today's Feast. However, Saint Frances lived mainly on dry bread and preferred fasting over feasting. She sets the perfect Lenten example for us: what can we fast from today in our effort to grow in holiness?
- Saint Frances served the poor: how can you do this? Perhaps fill a box of surplus coats, blankets, food to donate to those in need?
- Saint Frances cared for the sick: could you bless someone in their time of suffering or illness? Perhaps send a note, prepare a meal, or drop off groceries?
- Invoke St. Frances' protection as you are getting in your car to drive somewhere today.

congrats, Gavin!

Congratulations to Gavin Doe who has advanced to regional competition in archery. Gavin had never held a bow before learning in the parish school Archery Team with Coach Moreau.

gift to the parish from the new deacons

Deacons Michael Cavin, Mark Thompson and Michael Thompson gifted the parish with 2 acolyte candlesticks (seen on the cover). “It was done out of love for the parish and in response to the love and support we have always felt throughout our journey.” said Deacon Cavin on behalf of all. The gift was a total surprise to Fr Smith who blessed them at the 10a Mass on 28 February. The candlesticks are from Adrian Hammers, a company that has been around for over 130yrs doing precious metal works for churches.

news from lee ervin

With joy, we announce that Lee Ervin, former parishioner, guest speaker, and choir member at POP, will be joining the community of Mary Help of Christians Abbey (a.k.a Belmont Abbey) as a postulant for discernment, which takes place in three formal phases:

- Four Month Postulancy (March 2021 – June 2021)
- One Year Novitiate (July 11, 2021 – June 2022)
- Three Year Temporary Vows (July 2022 – June 2025)

Mary Help of Christians Abbey, of the American-Cassinense Benedictine Congregation, follows the Rule of St Benedict of Nursia. The monks of Belmont Abbey live the Rule of work and prayer (ora et labora) through the Divine Office, the Mass, and the administration of Belmont Abbey College. The College, founded in 1876, is a Catholic liberal arts college with more than 1,400 students enrolled in undergraduate programs. In keeping with the Benedictine tradition of stability and hospitality, Belmont Abbey also provides accommodations for spiritual retreats. The Abbey and the College are situated on a beautiful 700 acre site located 15 miles west of Charlotte, North Carolina.
