Letter from our Pastor

An Extraordinary Parish for Ordinary People

Dear Friends in Christ,

The regulation of the celebration of the sacraments, especially the Most Holy Eucharist, belongs to the Bishop in his diocese, and the Pastor in his territory. It is one of the most profound signs of communion in the Church that no ordained priest freelances on his own; his activity is always done in conversation with the appropriate authority. It is a clericalist attitude which says, "Well, I'm ordained, so I can do whatever I want wherever I want." Whenever I am present in another diocese or parish, I do not dare to presume to celebrate the sacraments without the permission and knowledge of the pastor, although I am free to respond to life-and-death situations in an appropriate manner. Most of the time, Mass takes place in parish churches.

From time to time, small groups of laypeople may wish to celebrate Mass for an entirely appropriate reason (like a retreat, for instance) with a priest who is available to do so. Those celebrations should never take place without the knowledge of the parish priest in whose territory the Mass occurs, and never to the detriment of the parish community. Every priest in the Catholic Church knows this. Sometimes a diocese does not allow certain groups to meet for a whole variety of reasons. Several years ago, the Neocatechumenal Way was not allowed to function in the diocese, and laypeople insisted on hiring priests on their own to come into the diocese and celebrate the sacraments without the knowledge of the Bishop or pastors. It was precisely this manipulative and underhanded way of undermining the authority of the clergy that was one of many reasons that they were not allowed in the diocese to function at all. A priest who refuses obedience in this matter is subject to canonical penalties, including suspension from active ministry.

I have had several occasions in which someone has come to me to ask for a priest to come in and celebrate Mass or other sacraments for a legitimate reason in a way which did not prejudice the normal life of the parish. Where it was possible and reasonable to have those celebrations in the church itself, I insisted that it happen there, but I have also been happy to allow for celebrations elsewhere, and even offered to provide all of the necessary items for Mass.

From time to time, a priest comes in to celebrate a private Mass, which is a Mass which is not part of the ordinarily scheduled Masses that are announced to the faithful. In one sense, the Mass is never private, because it is the public worship of the Church. But even private Masses cannot take place in a way which divides and separates the faithful from their pastors and their parishes. Sometimes people who try to arrange these celebrations do not intend to do that, but it does happen. It also creates expectations about further celebrations of its kind which can prejudice the normal life of the parish.

Just to be clear: ask your pastor first. We're not here to make things difficult, but there are protocols and disciplines that must be observed. And if a priest is going rogue celebrating Mass somewhere without the knowledge of the local pastor, you have to ask yourself why you are participating in something which that priest knows full well he is not supposed to do.

Most of the time, these alternative celebrations are just people wanting the very rare celebration of Mass with a small group with a priest they know, and do not intend any offense to their parish, pastor, or bishop. But there have been unauthorized groups who have used deception to get around the legitimate authority of their pastors, to deliberately separate believers from the table of the Lord to advance agendas contrary to the communion of the Church: in recent decades, we have seen groups on both Left and Right of the Catholic spectrum (which really shouldn't have any direction other than heaven) do this. It's time to cease and desist.

Celebrating the Liturgical Life of the Church

An Extraordinary Parish for Ordinary People

29 April: Feast of Saint Catherine of Siena.

Catherine was born in Siena, Italy in 1347. She was the 25th child in a large family, although half her siblings did not survive childhood. Catherine was intensely religious; she began to experience God mystically and took a vow of virginity before she turned seven. Frequent visions of Christ, Mary, angels and saints inspired her holy, austere lifestyle. At age 16, one of Catherine's sisters died. Her parents proposed that the widowed husband marry Catherine as a replacement, but Catherine vehemently opposed this. She fasted and cut her hair very short to mar her appearance. Her parents tried to force the marriage but Catherine's extreme fasting, prayer, and religious conviction made them relent. Catherine joined the Third Order of St. Dominic, which allowed her to live at home as a religious. She lived quietly isolated. She received the stigmata, had divine visions, and could levitate while praying. When she was 21, Catherine experienced a "mystical marriage to Christ" and was given an invisible ring made of Jesus's skin. In a vision, she was told to re-enter public life to help the poor and sick. She went to work in hospitals and homes. She once visited a condemned prisoner and was credited with saving his soul, which she saw being taken up to heaven as he died. Her reputation attracted a circle of followers. Before long, she had scribes to help her correspondence with many influential Church and secular leaders, including kings, queens, and the pope. The leaders asked for her advice. She travelled Europe seeking reconciliation between warring parties. She urged Pope Gregory XI to return to Rome and lobbied on behalf of the legitimacy of Pope Urban VI during the Great Schism of 1378. Catherine also looked after victims of the Black Plague, caring for the worst patients and burying the dead. She established a monastery for women. Her rich prayer life included frequent visions and ecstasies, recorded as a dialogue between a soul and God, in her Dialogue of Divine Providence. Her 400-some written letters are considered a great work of theology and literature. Her extreme fasting may have contributed to her death at the age of 33. She was canonized by Pope Pius II in 1461. In 1970, she was given the title of Doctor of the Church by Pope Paul VI (a Doctor of the Church is a saint recognized as having been of particular importance regarding their contribution to theology or doctrine).

"Be who God meant you to be, and you will set the world on fire." – St Catherine of Siena

Ideas for celebrating this feast at home:

- Watch on FORMED: "Who is St. Catherine of Siena?" (with Dr. Tim Gray); or a children's version here.
- Many meaningful quotes are attributed to St. Catherine (see here). As a reflection, choose one to copy and decorate (perhaps with a symbol of St. Catherine: a heart, cross, ring, stigmata, or lily).
- Write an encouraging letter: although St. Catherine was neither wealthy nor well-educated, she wrote influential letters. Think of someone who needs advice or encouragement and write them a letter.
- Pray for and write to a nurse or firefighter: St. Catherine is the patron of nurses and firefighters. Maybe also drop off a treat at your local fire department or nurse's station.
- Bake bread for the poor: St. Catherine baked bread daily for the poor. Follow her lead and make some bread to share with the poor. Or, bake some bread to give to someone who is poor in spirit and might just need a lift. Here is a recipe for St. Catherine "peace bread" in honor of her work for world peace.
- For a feast day dinner, an Italian meal is perfect since St. Catherine was from Italy. Try making Pasta Santa Caterina with garlic bread, salad with Italian dressing, and a Tiramisu or Pineapple Upside Down cake for dessert (the pineapple rings symbolizing how Catherine was espoused to Christ by an invisible nuptial ring).
